PINES Anticipated Growth

The Evergreen Project

- The five-year software contract for PINES ended in June 2005
- 2004-2005: comprehensive survey of library automation marketplace
- At issue: the unique needs of a statewide consortium sharing a union database and utilizing a statewide library card

The Evergreen Project

- What do PINES libraries need?
 - A true relational database
 - Flexible system administration
 - Granular permissions structure
 - A complex holds matrix
 - Ability to separate acquisitions records by library system
 - Reports designed to correspond to annual reporting requirements

The Evergreen Project

- Evergreen Integrated Library System is being developed using Open Source architecture.
- Released under General Public License.
- Alpha release (OPAC, Cataloging, Circulation) debuted in July 2005.
- PINES libraries will migrate to Evergreen software in late 2006.
- Transactions, patron records, bib records will be migrated from current system.

Evergreen Features

- Google-like spell-checking and search suggestions.
- When appropriate (and when available from the MARC data), series listings appear in the right sidebar on the search results screen.
- Ability to select specific material formats from the OPAC's front page.

Evergreen Features

- In MyOPAC, patrons can:
 - change personal login name;
 - change PIN;
 - place, cancel, and view holds;
 - modify how they would like to be alerted of available holds;
 - view fines; and
 - view address information.
- Added content from Content Café; interface with Novelist.

Evergreen Features

- Utilization of Meta-records: patrons can place a single hold that can be filled with a copy from multiple versions or formats of a work.
- Randomized holds that include geographic location as a factor
- Smart MARC editor.
- Scalability in anticipation of PINES growth.
- Next steps: Open NCIP, Acquisitions, Serials.

Evergreen
