

SAMPLE EXEMPLARY ASIA TEACHING WEBSITES

April 20, 2007

North GA College and State University

Asia for Educators

This Columbia university site encompasses the humanities and the social sciences. It is intended for high school and undergraduate instructors.

<http://afe.easia.columbia.edu/>

Asian Educational Media Service

This is the best source for information about Asian media in the United States (University of Illinois).

<http://www.aems.uiuc.edu>

Expanding East Asian Studies

The Expanding East Asian Studies (ExEAS) program seeks to create innovative courses and teaching materials that incorporate the study of East Asia in broad thematic, transnational, and interdisciplinary contexts.

<http://www.exeas.org/>

Ask Asia

This is the teaching site of the Asia society and is intended for K-12 educators.

<http://www.askasia.org/teachers/>

Visualizing Cultures

This is an outstanding site co-developed by John Dower that utilizes graphics for increasing cross cultural understanding.

<http://ocw.mit.edu/OcwWeb/Foreign-Languages-and-Literatures/21F-027JVisualizing-CulturesSpring2003/Units/index.htm>

Education About Asia

This is the Web site for the Association of Asian Studies teaching journal Education About Asia. It is intended primarily for high school and undergraduate instructors.

<http://www.aasianst.org/eaa-toc.htm>

National Consortium for Teaching about Asia

The Freeman Foundation sponsored National seminars on East Asia for high school teachers.

<http://www.nctasia.org/>

Smithsonian Freer Gallery

The Freer & Sackler Galleries of the Smithsonian Institution have Web sites that encompass outstanding examples of art in all areas of Asia, as well as resources for educators.

<http://www.asia.si.edu/>