

The Naming Advisory Group continues to work with historians and campuses to research named buildings and colleges across the University System of Georgia. While the group anticipates completion of the project soon, it has been focused on thoroughly reviewing the information it has been provided and therefore may take a little longer. Public input may still be submitted to the group through the system's website. Once work is completed, the group will present any recommended changes to the chancellor and chairman of the Board of Regents.
